26/11 Mumbai Attacks (November 26, 2008)

The 26/11 attacks were a series of coordinated terrorist attacks across Mumbai that lasted four days. Ten terrorists from Lashkar-e-Taiba entered India through the sea route, carrying automatic weapons, grenades, and explosives. The attacks targeted multiple locations including:

- Taj Palace Hotel - Luxury hotel where guests and staff were held hostage
- Oberoi Trident Hotel - Another major hotel attacked simultaneously
- Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Terminus - Major railway station where commuters were targeted
- Leopold Cafe - Popular tourist eatery
- Nariman House - Jewish community center

The attacks resulted in 166 deaths, including 18 foreigners, and over 300 injuries. The security forces, including NSG commandos, fought for four days to neutralize the terrorists. This attack exposed serious gaps in India's coastal security and led to significant reforms in counter-terrorism measures.

Pulwama Attack (February 14, 2019)

The Pulwama attack was a suicide bombing carried out by Adil Ahmad Dar, a local Kashmiri youth, on a CRPF convoy in Pulwama district, Jammu and Kashmir. A car loaded with explosives rammed into a bus carrying Central Reserve Police Force personnel, resulting in:

- 40 CRPF jawans killed
- Multiple injuries
- The deadliest terror attack in Kashmir in three decades

The attack was claimed by Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM), a Pakistan-based terrorist organization. This incident led to heightened tensions between India and Pakistan, culminating in the Balakot airstrike by the Indian Air Force.

Both attacks highlighted the persistent threat of cross-border terrorism and led to significant changes in India's security policies, counter-terrorism strategies, and international diplomatic approaches. They also strengthened national resolve against terrorism while raising important questions about regional security dynamics.
